GULF COAST JURISDICTION

Soldier transfers to the U.S. Air Force

GULFPORT, MISS. - Exhorter Kourtney Littlejohn, got one of the desires of her heart when she recently completed the successful transfer from the U.S. Army to the U.S. Air Force.

Exhorter Littlejohn is a member of The Church of the Living God International, Inc. and she attends Christ the Redeemer church in Gulfport, Miss., which is part of the Gulf Coast Jurisdiction.

“I separated from the Army on one day and enlisted in the Air Force the very next day. It was a very smooth transition,” said Exhorter Littlejohn. “I wanted to do this transfer for about a year, but decided to wait until the end of my enlistment.”

Exhorter Littlejohn was a 68 Tango, Animal Care Specialist (Veterinary Technician) in the Army and now she is a 4A0X1, Health Services Management in the Air Force. She kept the same rank and went from an E-4, Specialist in the Army to an E-4, Senior Airmen in the Air Force Reserve.

“While in the Army, I was stationed at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss. for over three years and I get to stay at Keesler as a Reservist in the Air Force. I praise God, because I love my church and I will not have the opportunity to continue to grow and mature in the Lord,” said Exhorter Littlejohn.
